TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

Dr. Francisco Javier Jiménez-Fernández was a very good student in the course of Physics of Fluids that I teach in the Faculty of Sciences of the University of Granada. He has been working on the cometary physics in the Instituto de Astrofísica de Andalucía (CSIC) in Granada (Spain) during the years 2007-2010. His PhD was presented in the Department of Applied Physics of the University of Granada, obtaining the distinction "cum laude" by unanimity in December 2010. The advisors were Dr. Fernando Moreno and myself.
